#EncoreSummit

20 Years of Encore Innovation. Since our founding in 1998 by social entrepreneur Marc Freedman, Encore.org has been guided by the belief that aging is every bit as much an opportunity to be seized as a problem to be solved. Our work has been animated by a single powerful question: How can society best tap the talent, skills, and experience of the rapidly growing older population to solve significant social problems, make life better for future generations, and improve the lives of older people in the process? Today, our work is moving from preparing the ground for demographic transformation to realizing the urgent possibilities in front of us. Society is at an inflection point. The changes in demography and longevity that have been predicted are now sweeping over us. For the first time in our nation's history, we have more people over 60 than under 18.

Lead Summit Sponsor

60 Years of AARP Enhancing the Quality of Life for Older Adults. AARP was founded in 1958 by Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus, California's first female high school principal, who disrupted many conventional ideas about women and aging throughout her career. Since its inception 60 years ago, AARP has grown and changed dramatically to meet the needs and interests of a changing 50+ population, while remaining true to its founding principle of promoting independence, dignity and purpose for all. Today, as AARP celebrates its 60th anniversary, CEO Jo Ann Jenkins, author of the best-selling book Disrupt Aging: A Bold New Path to Living Your Best Life at Every Age, is following in the footsteps of AARP's founder as a social innovator, leading the organization to spark new solutions that empower people to choose how they live as they age.

Welcome to the Encore Leaders' Summit: Creating the future together

Who's here?

Leaders, innovators, and activists who share a commitment to and belief in the power of encore talent and intergenerational connections.

Why now?

In these challenging and divided times, one thing that a majority of people agree about is that as many of us are living longer, a new life stage has opened up.

- How will we use this time to create a new vision of the future that works for all generations?
- What are the opportunities we can seize together, and what barriers are in our way?
- How can we accelerate change to transform longer lives into a force for good?

To create cultural change and close the innovation gap, together we'll learn from successful practices, explore new ideas, and work together in new ways. The 2018 Summit will start a new conversation among encore leaders and champions who are dedicated to making change.

How can you make the most of your Summit experience?

Explore three big themes – innovation, intergenerational connections, and a “new power” approach to change.

Dig into hot topics – what you told us you care about and want to tackle with other encore leaders.

Deepen connections with each other – meet new leaders and reconnect with colleagues – via the Summit mobile app as well as sessions, meals, hallway conversations . . . even the shuttle ride at the beginning and end of the day.

Capture new ideas – use the notetaking pages in this program to capture new ideas and “ah-ha moments.” Throughout the Summit, we'll be asking you to share!

Make commitments to action – leave the Summit with at least one concrete next step you'll take on your own or with others to create the future you want to see.

And enjoy your time in Los Angeles – the City of Angels!

Questions? Ask any member of our Encore.org team.

COMMUNITIES AT THE SUMMIT

You're coming to the Summit from many different perspectives and organizations, including the programs, networks, and public efforts described below. During the times called "community gatherings," you'll have the opportunity to work with one or several of these communities based on your interests. Note that some sessions are open to all, and others may be designed for a specific group that began its work together before the Summit. Wear your sticker (or stickers) on your badge to show how you're connected. And feel free to ask questions if you're curious about what any group is doing!

Gen2Gen organizational partners, individual champions and campaign supporters working across different communities, sectors and spheres to mobilize adults 50+ to help young people thrive.

Organizations and individual members working in 30+ states and 14 countries to help experienced adults find their encores, plus social purpose organizations engaging encore talent.

Program operators and supporters that work at the local level to match skilled, seasoned professionals with social purpose organizations in one-year, high-impact paid assignments.

2018 Gen2Gen Encore Prize finalists and 2017 winners working to create innovative ways to tap the talent of adults 50+ to help young people thrive.

Funders and civic leaders advocating for encore talent in different sectors, locations and spheres.

Journalists, researchers and other voices advancing for and documenting a new vision for the future of aging through research, communications, writing and speaking.

Marc Freedman, President & CEO, Encore.org

Marc Freedman is a renowned social entrepreneur, thought leader and writer. Under Marc's leadership, Encore.org has pioneered innovative programs and sparked a growing movement in the United States and beyond to tap the talent and experience of people past midlife as a human resource for solving our most vexing social problems. Marc's new book, How to Live Forever: The Enduring Power of Connecting the Generations, issues a deeply personal call to connect with the next generation and forge a legacy of love that lives beyond us.

Jo Ann Jenkins, CEO, AARP

As Encore.org celebrates its 20th birthday, AARP is celebrating its 60th. Jo Ann Jenkins, author of the best-selling book Disrupt Aging, is determined to write a new story that empowers us to live our best lives at every age. Jo Ann embodies the AARP motto "To serve, not to be served." Her leadership follows in the footsteps of AARP's founder, Ethel Percy Andrus, California's first female high school principal and a disrupter of many conventional ideas about women and aging.
